-1 wont be able to use her laptop because it was stolen. You can not use stolen property as evidence.

2 You can in a court of public opinion. That's why they're rushing to silence us. Plus, it wasn't stolen we paid for the damn thing! We just took it back from that ungrateful bitch.

1 so what about public opinion? Majority of americans know that their corrupt deepstate shills wanting to destroy america. They have their own private army they dont care. They use a broken voting system to stay in power they dont need your votes. Your capitol is now their capitol. The laptop is now their laptop. Your country is now their country. What are you going to do about it?

Ain't happening buttercup and a lot of rational fence riders are now getting red pill'd by the flip flopping of policy.

1 this is not old warfare where it was gun to gun fights. This is now guns vs machines fights. They will just drone the militias all day long.

2 Maybe it was government issued. Probably not, but maybe.

4 He's right. I don't know if they were special forces, but there was definitely military inside the Capitol.

3 Because I saw them (I was in the Capital). One of the teams was captured on this video....

Go to <https://banned.video/watch?id=5ff6857e00bac0328da8e888> Forward it to the 28 minute mark.

Pay attention to the two guys in camo with the gas masks. Everyone there is excited, looking around, taking vid/photos...not these two guys. Pay attention to them. They briefly talk to each other, then they move towards Pelosi's office with intent. They're not looking around, they're not taking vid/pics, they're not exhibiting any excitement about being there. They're on a mission.

In the one chamber I was in, I saw two of the same guys (not the actual same guys, but wearing camo and gas masks). Again, everyone in there was excited, gawking around, taking vid/pics, except those two guys. They stood side by side, heads forward, not moving at all (they were like fucking statues), just waiting for the police to allow us to move forward from that chamber. At the time, it did strike me as very odd, but I didn't know what to make of it. They stood out from the rest of the crowd.

2 Oh wow. Thanks

I do have a question though:

The black backpack and helmets don't look like standard issue.

Neither do the gas masks, I can't find a single service mask that looks like those, I think, they match the m50, m51, or m53 masks.

I can't speak to the equipment. I don't know what is standard issue and what's not. All I know is what I observed. These people didn't act like they weren't supposed to be there, like everyone else. They moved with purpose. In all the chaos, they stood out for being calm.

Hang them high or take all their money. That I believe would be more devastating to them. Make them serve the poor for the rest of their lives. That would be poetic justice

I pray that this is going to happen. I will be eternally grateful to Jesus if he saves us.
